

EAT • FOOD HOLIDAYS

Chef Moms Share Their Favorite Mother's Day Food Gifts

This year, mom wants a pizza oven, a champagne subscription, and a bundt pan reminiscent of 'Bridgerton.'

Moms know that the best way to show love is through food—whether it be sliced fruit with your favorite dip, a bubbling casserole dish that's as rich as it is comforting, or warm cookies fresh out of the oven.

With Mother's Day coming up, it's our turn to show our moms how much we appreciate them: through food (and, okay, maybe a bottle of wine or champagne here and there).

Show your moms how much they mean to us with kid-friendly pancake mixes, a beautiful set of new spices, a tin of fancy salt, and a bucket of ice cream. We turned to the experts—chefs, restaurateurs, and small business owners in the food and drink space (who also all happen to be moms)—for their suggestions.

Meg Walker

CEO & Executive Chef of Made by Meg Catering

“Being a busy, on-the-go mom with a refined palate, I’d love some finishing salts for my purse. One of my favorite brands is Jacobsen Salt Co. and they have a slide tin of pure flake salt that is available for the price of a day’s milk money! Aroma is also everything.

Lighting a candle and relaxing is something I really treasure, and I love Jo Malone’s Nectarine Blossom and Honey candle.

Finally, I’m a big proponent of high-quality wines and the break that a glass of wine offers to busy moms. One of my absolute favorite wineries is Sanford Winery in the St. Rita Hills of California. Get Mom a wine club membership for the year. The Chardonnay is out of this world!”

